at Gleason's store. The local lobby was reminiscent of a New York subway car. When the Sox warriors finally forced their way into the breakfast room, the crowd shoved after them. The Chicagoans unconcernedly went about the business of demolishing ham, eggs and such things.

It was an old story to them; they have seen a world series before. Across the street at another hotel, Pat Moran breakfasted with a few cronies. Few of the Reds appeared. Most of them remained at home until the morning was well advanced.

Scalpers Auction Seats. Ticket scalpers registered a new one today. Box and grandstand seats, for the first game, were auctioned and business was brisk. No attempt was made by the authorities to prevent auction sales. One speculator declared Government agents would get the excess war tax on all sales. Grandstand seats were bid up to twice the regular price charged by the club.

Every seat in Redland field was sold before last night, and an attendance of almost 30,000 seemed assured. Last year 19,000 persons attended the opening game of the series at Chicago. Redland probably will pack the stand at every game played here.

Ground rules to cover hits into the portions of the outfield where stands were being sold were made.

Girl Just Can't Live on $30 a Week Now; But Can Worry Along on $40 Per

NEW YORK, Oct. 1.—A girl of sixteen who formerly could worry along on $30 a week now needs $40, according to Mrs. Jennie Goldstein, who applied to Surgeon General to have the allowance of her daughter, Celia, increased to the latter sum.

"The reason," said Mrs. Goldstein in her petition, "is the increased cost of necessities."

Celia's father was Jacob Aronson, who left a trust fund of $50,000 for her when he died in 1904. The girl's mother gave a long list of items, showing increased cost of wearing apparel, among which were:

Shoes formerly $7, now $10 to $15; hats at $7, now $10 to $14; corsets at $1.50, now $2.50. The price of a dress is up from $5 to 75 per cent, and even the cost of entertainment is up 50 per cent.

Today, Hitz into the crowd in left field will go for two bases; in the others, three. Hitz into the stands, of course, will be home runs.

Industrial wheels of Cincinnati didn't turn with normal speed today. Many business houses and factories will close this afternoon for the season.

Don't let careless expenditure make a hole in your purse. Buy wisely, and increase your money holdings by investing in U. S. S.

VISION SENDS SON TO FIND AGED WOMAN IS A SUICIDE

BALTIMORE, Oct. 1.—More than twenty-four hours after Mrs. Mary Hanna, seventy-one years old, had shot herself in the head, taking aim by means of a small mirror which she had tied to the foot of the bed, her body was discovered when her daughter, Mrs. Lorraby, of Norfolk, Va., telegraphed a brother to see if "something hasn't happened to mother." The family believes it a case of mental telepathy.

Shot Heard Monday.

The shot was heard Monday afternoon about 3:30 o'clock by Mrs. Johanna Miller, who occupies the house. She thought the noise was made by children in the rear yard and gave it no further thought. Last night, however, Mrs. Hanna's son, Joseph W. Hanna, called as suggested by his sister's telegram. Mrs. Miller said Mrs. Hanna wasn't in, as she hadn't seen her for several days, and thought she was at Mr. Hanna's home.

Entering the room, she found Mrs. Hanna's body on the bed, the shades drawn, windows closed, towels hung over the keyholes and the mirror tied to the bed.

From the position of the mirror, it is believed that Mrs. Hanna so adjusted it so that she could watch herself as she put the pistol to her head. She had placed several pillows under her head and shoulders so as to see herself in the glass.

Mrs. Hanna had for some time feared that she was losing her mind, according to Mrs. Miller, who said she would frequently stand in a room counting and talking about papers. Asked why she was counting, Mrs. Miller said she would then be able to hear her knock.

Mrs. Hanna wrote the name and address of her children on an envelope, but left no note as to the reason for her act.

A pension for all blind persons of small means in the District of Columbia is authorized in a bill introduced in the House yesterday by Congressman Martin L. Duway, of Ohio. Data to be used by Mr. Duway in urging the passage of the bill is being gathered by William H. Harman, Mexican War veteran, at the National Soldiers' Home. Those having information of blind persons in the District are requested to send it to Mr. Harman, box 1907, National Soldiers' Home.

Two years ago, when Mr. Harman was sent to the Home, he was totally blind. His sight has been partially restored by treatment.

FRESHMEN SENATORS

Another Intimate Personal Sketch of One of the New Arrivals in the Upper Chamber.

This One Being About DAVID I. WALSH, Who Admits He Doesn't Know It All and Seeks Advice From Newspapermen.

There is one new Senator who admits that he is a freshman Senator and is rather proud of it. He is Senator David I. Walsh, of Massachusetts, a young and progressive running mate for the very conservative Senator Lodge.

Procedure in the Senate is confusing to the uninitiated, but instead of sitting quietly in his seat and wondering what it is all about, though trying to look very wise, Senator Walsh proceeds to inform himself. He isn't afraid to show his ignorance and even appeals to newspapermen to learn just what is happening.

Senator Walsh is one of the most impressive, in appearance, of the younger members of the Senate. He is tall, built like an athlete and has a face that has been called handsome. Immaculate in dress, Senator Walsh displays a bit of dash which makes him appear almost boyish when he appears beside some of the older, swallow-tailed members of the Senate.

New members of the Senate are apt to be squeamish at the attempt to inject themselves too forcibly into affairs, and Senator Walsh is seldom heard from on the floor. But when he does speak he gets attention. He has a deep, ringing voice, but speaks quickly and to the point. In the matter of choice of words no member of the Senate exceeds Senator Walsh in brevity and conciseness.

Well schooled in politics by reason of his long service in the Democratic party in Massachusetts, Senator Walsh is not to be out-generalized, and he plays the game of politics like an old hand when he is forced to, although he much prefers a straight open fight. He is not at all lacking in courage, as has been evidenced in his remarks on the Irish situation, which is particularly close to his heart. Before the peace treaty is disposed of by the Senate the nation will hear more of Senator Walsh's views on the Irish question, and it is whispered that he intends to force a show down in the Senate.

Senator Walsh served two terms as Governor of Massachusetts and has previous service as lieutenant-governor and as a State legislator. By profession he is a lawyer. Born at Fitchburg, Massachusetts, Senator Walsh studied at Holy Cross College and Boston University and began the practice of law in Fitchburg. Later he became a member of a Boston law firm.

DR. WILEY TO BE SPEAKER AT CITY CLUB TODAY

The weekly luncheon talk of the City Club, scheduled for this afternoon at the clubhouse, on I street northwest facing Farragut Square, will be given by Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, pure food expert and former chief of the Bureau of Chemistry at the Department of Agriculture.

The attendance at the last luncheon was so large some members had difficulty in finding seats. Members have been warned to appear promptly today. A new system of expedited luncheon service will be inaugurated today, so that the large crowd can be served with the greatest possible speed.

BURGARS USE ELECTRICITY. NEW YORK, Oct. 1.—Up-to-date burglars working with electrically driven drills, bored their way into a safe in the Harlem store of W. L. Douglas Shoe Company and escaped with $500. In the hurry to get away, the burglars left their sets of tools—the latest thing in safe cracking.
